Arranging Bridge Program

The Portsmouth Sunday school committee in charge of the program for the opening of the Tronton and Russell bridge is now ready to make an announcement, yet of those who will accept the city's invitation to be present and take part in the program, it is known the telephone and long distance telephone wires are being freely used and that the program is rapidly shaping up. It is announced now that it is certain that the general public will be very appreciably surprised when the program is announced.

SERVICES AT ALL SAINTS'

There will be Holy Week services at All Saints' Church tonight, with special Lenten address by the Rector and the singing of Holy Week hymns by the choir. The service will commence at 7:30 p. m. and will last about forty minutes. The Rector asks all who love their Lord to attend these Holy Week services. The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:00 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel. All are cordially invited to attend the many special services in All Saints' Church this week. Plan to be

Claim Ford Was Robbed

County officers responded to a call to Valley township early Monday morning and took into custody Herman Condit, 23, and Chas. Sturgis, 20, for alleged larceny in connection with the theft of an auto tire, radio and other articles from a Ford touring car belonging to Stewart Young, while the latter was attending services at the Fallon Timber church Sunday night.

The accused young men denied guilt when arraigned before Squire Morgan and they were released on bond for their appearance for trial on April 15.

The stolen property was found by children on their way to school Monday morning in a ditch at the road side near the church the complainant told the officers.

Church Goers Must Obey Parking Rules

Traffic Officer Stanley Schroeder was busy last night notifying auto owners, who attended services at the First Christian church that they must not park their machines directly in front of the church doors, must keep their tail lights burning and must not park on both side of Gay street.

U. C. T.'S HONOR THEIR DEAD

With close to 125 members present River City council, No. 11, United Commercial Travelers held their 1922 memorial service Sunday morning at Bigelow church. They met at their hall, Fourth and Washington streets, and marched in a body to the church the line of march being east on Fourth to Chillicothe, north on Chillicothe to Fifth and south on Fifth to the church.

Rev. Chandler delivered a special sermon, one most appropriate for the memorial services. The special music arranged for the service was greatly appreciated by the organization. A solo was given by J. Watson Goddard and a quartet number by Mr. Goddard, Mrs. P. E. Selby, Miss Bertha Staiger and Chester Rigges. The quartet number was "Alone."

The U. C. T. service followed the sermon. Active Secretary Matthy Ranges gave the date of the founding of the local council, Feb. 1, 1890, and then read the names of 15 deceased members. Three members passed away the last year. They were W. W. Devery, D. L. Williams and C. C. Wheeler. As the names of each were read while carnations were placed in vases by Miss Mary Louise Selby and Miss Virginia Blake.

C. E. Howling acted as chaplain in the absence of Edward Gims and gave the closing prayer.

Accused Of Wielding Wrench

George Emmett, West Side farmer, waived examination when he appeared in Municipal court Monday to answer to a charge of assault and battery upon Joe Jordan, Mahert Road young man, and Judge McCall fixed the bond of the accused at $200 which he furnished and was released from custody.

The alleged assault is claimed to have grown out of an altercation between the complainant and Emmett Sunday over the right of Jordan and his two companions, Melvin Rose and Joe Taylor, also of Mahert Road, to trespass on the defendant's land while fishing in Pond Creek. Emmett is alleged to have struck young Jordan on the head with a wrench.

Exchange Club Meets Tuesday

The regular meeting of the Exchange Club will be held Tuesday evening at 5:30 at the Mary Louise on Gallia street. All members are urged to be present.

Child Is Painfully Hurt

Elmer Hosous, three year old son of Mrs. Arthur Enrick of 1017 Lincoln street was badly bruised about the hips and may be suffering from internal injuries as the result of an accident in front of the Lewis grocery, Eleventh and Lincoln streets about 8:45 o'clock Monday morning. A Pure Milk Company's wagon was standing in front of the store while the driver was inside getting empty bottles.

The child had been playing on the sidewalk and must have ventured too close to the wagon. There were no eye witnesses to the accident the child's screams and yells attracting persons in the street.

He was found between the curb and wheels of the wagon and was probably caught between the curb and wheel. The horse walked only a few steps. The mother carried the child home and summoned Dr. A. A. Wilkoff who made an examination and found serious bruises about the hip. An X-ray will be taken probably tomorrow to determine if he suffered internal injuries.

Recovers Net; Owners Fined

For violating the fish and game laws by placing a trammel net in the old river bed on the West Side this morning the natural trout of fish, McKinley Malone and Roy Malone, brothers, living at Carey's Run, were fined $25 and costs by Judge McCall in Municipal court Monday. The young men were caught by Game Protector Frank Vorhees early Sunday when the officer located the net which at the time contained scores of big fish.

Ban Placed On Spellbinders

No more spell binding on the Government Square. The police department has issued an order that orators, vendors and hawkers must find another place to transact their business in the future and that the square has been closed to all forms of spell binding.

Runaway Lads Return Home

Millard Napier, 14-year-old son of M. E. Napier of 1320 Summit street, and Julian Sutherland, 15, son of C. P. Sutherland, 1008 High street, who disappeared from their homes here several days ago, arrived home about midnight the same day, the boys riding a freight train as far as Kenova, where they changed their minds about going on to Huntington and started the return trip home.

The lads said they rode freight trains and walked, and that walking part of the trip included about 18 miles. The experience was enough for the lads, who are not counting on any such trips in the near future.

HOWARD IS ABLE TO RETURN HOME

Elmer Howard of 914 North Second street, Trouton, who was injured last Thursday morning when the automobile in which he was riding was wrecked north of Wakefield, has left Hempstead hospital and returned to his home in Trouton. He suffered cuts and bruises about the head and back and was the worst injured of four passengers in the machine.

New Jewett Car Is Here

The Jewett, the new light six designed and manufactured by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company, is now on exhibition in the local Paige subsidiaries. An allotment is on the way and motorists will soon have an opportunity not only to examine the car, but also ride in it, so that they may determine just what Paige engineers have worked out in the way of a six-cylinder automobile in the one thousand dollar class.

Although up to now the Jewett has been displayed only privately and the public has had neither an opportunity to see nor to ride in it, a widespread interest has already been aroused and many inquiries have been received. News travels fast and word has gone forth that the Jewett, a high-powered six with every attractive body line, is something of an engineering and manufacturing achievement at the price.

C. B. Ehrman of the Portsmouth Paige company drove the first Jewett through for this city Saturday.

Autos Dispute Way; Damaged

When an Independent Taxi Company truck and a Ford touring car belonging to George Montavon, disputed the right of way at Fifth and Court streets about seven o'clock Sunday evening, the Ford lost the decision, being considerably damaged when the machines crashed together. Fortunately Montavon and others in the car with him escaped injury and Joe Teegarten, driver of the truck, was not hurt.

Twenty-four Years Ago

McGee and Boyd, two enterprising machinists, opened a foundry and repair shop in the building on North Chillicothe street, formerly occupied by the J. B. Carter barrel factory.

Resolutions of sorrow on the death of Judge James M. Dawson were adopted by the city school board of which he was a member at the time of his death.

Adam Fletcher, of Beavertown, pioneer farmer and stock raiser of that section, died at his home there at the age of seventy-three.

A license to wed was obtained by Simon W. Johnson, M. D. and Alba G. Crill.

Dave Rose, veteran of the Civil War, died at his home at Bear Creek, Dr. Simon M. Johnson and his bride, Mrs. Alba Crill, left for Hardin county, where the physician expected to practice his profession.

Mrs. C. C. Cunningham was painfully injured when she fell through an open cellar door at her home on Lawson Heights.

The young people of the German Evangelical church held their annual Easter market at George Kahl's book store on West Second street.

Lamp Shade Making Grows More Popular

And why shouldn't it with a great array of necessary materials, comprising everything that goes into the making of lamp shades, on display in our recently enlarged Art shop. Here you will find all of those rich and rare silks and trimmings usually found in the most exclusive shops and we delight in giving instructions so that every woman might own handsome lamp shades of her own making, at a cost of about one-half of what would have to be paid if they were purchased completed.

Are You Making Rugs?

It seems queer, all the funny twists styles make. Now the fad is making rugs. You will not think it strange, however, when you see how delightful, quaint, old-fashioned, yet ever new, rugs of the Martha Washington variety can be made from the supplies which we sell. We have the carpet races, all dyed in the wanted colors and can instruct you in the making of those round and oval rugs which so many housekeepers like to have to add a touch to their rooms.

Apparel Lovely Enough For Easter Or Any Other Time

This store has translated Easter into terms of merchandise. The new displays here have about them the magic new charm of the Easter season. The smart glint of color that enlivens millinery, the charming dresses and the capes and coats so free and wrappy, to say nothing of the accessories which impart their quota of rejuvenation, all combine to make this store one of seasonable suggestions.

Individual Charm In A Hundred Easter Time Dresses

We have here specially priced for Easter buying more than one hundred stylish, beautifully designed frocks in the wanted fabrics of the season. There is sure to be heavy buying in this department this week, and Easter will find these dresses gladdening the heart and adding to the appearance and attractiveness of a number of patrons.

Exquisite High Colored Petticoats

When you see the colors you instinctively say "How gorgeous" and when you note the quality, one can scarcely refrain from saying "How lovely."

Particularly charming are the numbers made of Badium Silk and Floriswah, the latter being a trade-marked fabric sold in Portsmouth exclusively at Anderson's. Of course, the petticoats in both these lines come in all the new spring high colorings, thus producing one more bit of apparel that Mildred eagerly desires.

THE RADIUM SILK PETTICOATS are priced at $6.50 up, and the Floriswah are priced at $9.75.

SILK BLOOMERS in a line of the same high colors in Jersey silk, priced at $4.50. The Belding Satin Bloomers are priced at $6.50 and the exclusive and lustrous Floriswah may be had at $7.95.

"HOW ARE YOU?" YOUR FRIENDS ASK

They Hope That You Are Well and Strong—Your Health Is Unnatural

All your friends greet you with "How do you do?" or "How are you?" They want you to be in good health. Poor health means unhappiness and trouble and pain to you and your friends and is not what Nature planned for human beings. But through overwork or improper living people do become run-down and sickly. If you feel that way you are weak and nervous and do not sleep well and have headaches, so get some Gude's Pepto-Mangan and take it with your meals for a few weeks and you will get your health and strength back again and be as well as your healthy friends. You can buy it in liquid or tablet form. Ask for Gude's Pepto-Mangan. Advertisement.

Bright. Mrs. Perch is a very old friend of mine and a very simple and kindly old lady. There'll be only herself for Effie to meet. And she'll make a daughter of her."

Nothing of the penetration abated from the deepest eyes, nor came any expression of thanks from the stern, pursed mouth. "I'll take my girl over and see for myself, Mr. Sabre."

Surely, stupid old man. However, poor young Perch! Poor old Mrs. Perch! The very thing, if only it would come off.

It came off. Sabre went up to Puncher's farm on the evening of the day Mr. Bright, to see for himself, had called with Effie. Young Perch greeted him delightedly in the doorway and clasped his hand in gratitude. "It's all right, it's fixed. She's coming. I could see she took to the girl from the start."

"By Jove, you can't think how grateful I am to you, Sabre."

CHAPTER V

THIS frightful war! On his brain like a weight, on his heart like a pressing hand.

Blowing about the streets, in the newspapers and at meetings in the mouths of many, and in the eyes of most, was the new popular question, "Why aren't you in khaki?" The subject of age, always shrouded in a solemn and deceiving modesty, was suddenly ripped out of its prudish coverings.

That was in the third month of the year. But by June, 1915, the position on these little points had hardened. In June, "Why aren't you in khaki?" was blowing about the streets. Certain men avoided one another. And in June young Harold joined up. Sabre greeted the news with very great warmth. "By Jove, I'm glad. Well done, Harold. That's splendid. Jolly good luck to you."

Later in the morning Twynning came in. His air struck Sabre as being deliberately aggressive. "Well, Harold's gone," he said.

"Yes, I'm jolly glad for the boy's sake. I was just congratulating him. I think it's splendid of him."

Twynning breathed heavily through his nose. "Splendid? Hurr! Well, his gone now, and I hope you're satisfied."

Sabre turned in his chair and questioned Twynning with puckered brows. "Satisfied? What on earth do you mean—satisfied?"

"You always thought he ought to go. My boy saw it."

"You're talking nonsense. I've never so much as mentioned the subject to Harold."

Twynning always retracted when Sabre showed signs of becoming roused. "Ah, well, what does it matter? He's gone now. You want till you've got a son, then you'll think differently, perhaps. You don't know what my boy means to me. I got him in here so as to have him with me and now this curse I want's taken him. You don't know what he is, my boy Harold. He's a better man than his father. He'll tell you that. He's a good Christian boy. He's never had a bad thought or said a bad word."

Not very long after this incident occurred another incident. In its object Twynning was also related to life with Sabre. Nona's design on the girl? He would have returned an important answer and he not been so anxious on the question. Sabre apprehended in it a different bearing.

One morning he stepped suddenly from his own room into Mr. Fortune's in quest of a reference. Twynning and Mr. Fortune were seated together in deep conversation. They were very often thus seated. Sabre had noticed. At his entry their conversation abruptly ceased; and this also was not new.

Sabre went across to the filing cabinet without speaking.

"Mr. Fortune, cleared."

"All Sabre. We were just saying what a very deeply unfortunate thing it is that none of its principals are of an age to do the right thing by the firm by joining the army."

"Yes, it's a pity," Sabre said.

"I'm glad you agree. I know you would. For myself, of course, I'm out of the question. Twynning here is getting on for forty and of course he's given his son to the war. You of course, you're married, too, and there we are! It does, as you say, seem a great pity."

Sabre spoke very slowly. Most furious anger was about to burst when there had suddenly come to its control the thought, "These two aren't getting at you for any love of Richard, for any patriotic reason. There's another reason." He said very slowly, "I never told you, perhaps I ought to have told you at the time, that I was refused for the army some while ago."

Twynning spun around from the bookcase. Really? By Jove, and you look fit enough, too, old man. Fancy—oh, I say, old man, do let's have a look at your paper if you've got it on you."

Sabre was at the door. "What paper?"

"Your rejection paper, old man. I've never seen one."

"I haven't got one."

"What a pity!"

"It's a pity," Sabre said.

"I'm glad you agree. I know you would. For myself, of course, I'm out of the question. Twynning here is getting on for forty and of course he's given his son to the war. You of course, you're married, too, and there we are! It does, as you say, seem a great pity."

"Not got one! You must have, old man."

"Well, I haven't. I was seen privately. I'm rather friendly with them up at the barracks."

"Oh, yes, of course. Wonder they didn't give you a paper, though."

Sabre paused on the threshold. He perfectly well understood the villainous implication. "Vile, intolerable! But of what service to take it up?"

In August, the anniversary month of the war, he again offered himself for enlistment and was again rejected, but this time after a longer scrutiny; the standard was not at its first height of perfection.

He was enormously cast down by his rejection. When he got back that night he went straight into her. "I say, they've rejected me. They won't have me." His face worked.

"It's that cursed heart."

She slightly puckered her brows. "Oh, at you know, for the minute I couldn't think what on earth you were talking about. Were you rejected? Well, I must say I'm glad."

He said flatly, "Why are you?"

"Well, do just imagine what you'd look like in private soldier's clothing again."

He turned away.

CHAPTER VI

U P in his room he began a long letter to Nona, pouring out to her all his feelings about this second rejection. He was writing to her and hearing from her—regularly and frequently now. It was his only vent in the oppression of these frightful days. She said that it was hers, too.

In her letter she always mentioned Tony. She wrote to Tony every day, she told him; and there were few of her letters but mentioned a parcel of some kind sent to her husband. Tony never wrote.

She once or twice said, without any comment. "But he is writing often to Mrs. Stanley and Lady Grace Heldon and Sophie Hasbrou and I hear bits of him from them and know he is keeping well. Of course I pretend to them that their news is stale to me. I feel most terribly that the best thing every woman can do in this frightful time is to do all she can for her man out there; and Tony's mine. When this is all over—oh, Marko, is it ever going to be over? Things will hurt again; but what's out there the old things are dead and Tony's mine and England's—my man for England; that is my thought; that is my pride; that is my prayer."

"I SAY, THEY'VE REJECTED ME!"

And a few lines farther on, "And he's so splendid. Of course you can imagine how utterly splendid he is. Lady King-Warner, his colonel's wife, told me yesterday her husband says he's never beyond anything she could imagine. He said—she's given me his letter—the men have picked up from home this story about angels at Mons and are beginning to believe they saw them. Tyler says he hopes the angels were near him, because he thought he was in hell, the particular bit he got into, and he thinks it must be good for angels, enlarging for their minds to know what hell is like. As a matter of fact, Tyler himself is nearer to the superhuman than anything I saw knocking about at Mons. His daring and his coolness and his example are a byword in a battalion composed, my dear, with the solitary exception of the writer, of thirty of heroes. In sticky places Tyler is the most wonderful thing that ever happened."

"Can't you imagine him, Marko?"

On the following day Tidborough, opening his newspapers, shook hands with itself in all its houses, shops and offices in its own special and most glorious V. C.—Lord Tyler.

Tyler's V. C. was the first thing Sabre spoke of to Nona when a fortnight later, she came down and he went up to her at Northrops in the afternoon. His brilliant gallantry, rendered so vivid to him by the intimacy with which he could see that three attractive figures emerged in his performance, stirred him most deeply. He had heard every line of its official record in the restrained language of the Gazette.

The left flank of the position was insecure, and the post, when taken over, was ill prepared for defense. When the battalion was suffering very heavy casualties from a Trum, field gun at very close range, Captain Lord Tyler rushed forward under intense machine gun fire and succeeded in capturing the gun side-handed after killing the entire crew.

Later, when repeated attacks developed, he controlled the defense at the point threatened, giving personal assistance with revolver and hands.

Sing-handed he repulsed one bombing assault. It was entirely owing to the gallant conduct of this officer that the situation was relieved.

His rare and splendid spirit, for one's darling, three worthy of her glory."

Billy Sunday Gets Draft For $34,658

CHARLESTON, W. VA., April 10—The Sunday's collections of the Billy Sunday tabernacle campaign totalled more than $34,000, which, added to the $20,000 solicited in advance of the closing Sunday of the revival by an energetic local finance organization and contributed by those attending the meetings of the last week of the campaign, made a grand total of $54,658.

Billy Sunday broke into tears when presented with a draft and said: "It is the first time I have cried since I have been in Charleston. I would rather have your love and affection and tear up the check, but then the check is an evidence of your love and affection. No city will ever be able to pry out Charleston's position with me."

The presentation of the draft followed the largest trail-hitting of any single meeting of the campaign, when nearly one thousand people came forward and shook the evangelist's hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Sunday called on former Governor W. A. MacCorkle, honorary chairman of the campaign at the hospital after the meeting last night. They go to Philadelphia, where the evangelist speaks Monday night under the auspices of the law and order league. The next campaign begins at Richmond, Ind., next Sunday.

The total number of trail-hitters exceeds 9,000, though there are duplicates under the system used. The total is not so large as at other cities where the evangelist has been in West Virginia, but the purse raised outdoes other points in this state.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor Daily Times:

A short time ago there appeared in your editorial news an article concerning the "Hello Girl," which no doubt won much comment by many. From my viewpoint the writer was very thoughtful and considerate himself, by the interest shown and the appreciation of his attitude could not be valued by those with whom the article referred.

"Consider the 'Hello Girl'!" Well, the word "consider" in the first place for some folks is a big word, but wouldn't we all be profited if we were a little more considerate of the other fellow.

No man would allow himself to even think of entering into a deal of any kind without first giving the matter some consideration.

Then let us not enter into a habit or an attitude of always finding fault with the telephone service without considering first just what it may mean to us personally, but rather let us give it a boost, thus helping the other fellow concerned.

If a man expects consideration from others, he himself must first be a little more considerate.

What all means to a machine, a kind word means to humanity; and especially to that part who render telephone service, lubricating the wheels of life to run more smoothly, thus adding to determination of giving to the public the best of service expected.

I venture to say few people appreciate the wonderful invention of the telephone, and care less to know anything concerning its workings.

All through the years new improvements along every line have been made until at the present time.

Approximately in every city, automatic equipments have been installed, thus affording an operator a better chance to give prompt and efficient service.

I dare say that the public does not at any time suffer a lapse in service. Of course nothing could be more irritating at any time than poor service, in whatever line it may be.

Weather conditions cause a tremendous volume of telephone traffic and operators and switchboards are taxed to the utmost, but notwithstanding the strain placed upon service any time it adequately meets emergencies, because of the fact that most operators are alert and thoughtful and devoted to their task, always having before them the motto "Service First."

Oftentimes parties being called have carelessly left receivers down, then sometimes folks fail to remember other parties may be calling for same lines already in use, but the operator cheerfully takes all the blame for such incidents.

The public as a whole needs to cultivate the habit of patience and good nature over the phone.

Again I repeat "Consider the 'Hello Girl,'" for she is filling her place in the world and needs kindness and encouragement to help her on her upward march of daily living and will appreciate all encouragement and cooperation given.

Shall we not then try to live according to the "golden rule," but if not can we not then at least have a little consideration for the other fellow?

Respectfully,

GLAD EASTER COMES WHEN ALL APPAREL MUST BE NEW

OLDER than fashion itself is the ancient tradition that the Springtime festival may be rightly celebrated only when one wears immaculate apparel that has never been worn before the vernal occasion. Nature herself, established the wholesome precedent by re-clothing the earth in new garments of grass and foliage and flowers — birds and animals have their molting time, when heavy Winter habiliments are shed for Summer's lighter garb.

So, Fashion is but Nature's subterfuge, to remind the forgetful or careless; and good form is thus only a more forceful urge to the dictates of good sense and good health, and the wholesome love of dress is as natural as the love for flowers and all other things beautiful and new.

Ours is the Service of Supply — to gather and display for your selection everything in Apparel that is new and good, for the great Easter Festival—for woman, child, as well as for the Home.

Your Easter Dress Is Among THIS WONDROUS COLLECTION

Will it be a repetition of the same silhouette of last season, will it be one of all white or a colorful frock of silk or crepe, elaborately embellished with embroidery or beads? Perhaps it will be the new version of a mode that dates back twenty years or more. And then again, it may be a frock with cape attached. Whatever your selection may be, it will be chosen judiciously from an authentic and brilliant exposition of the last word in dress modes.

DR. AND MRS. J. C. MARTING CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY WITH A GIFT OF $100,000 TO COLLEGE

A romance which began in Scioto county years ago was recalled in a touching manner recently when Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Marting, of Berea, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a gift of $100,000 to Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea. Dr. Marting is a brother of Mr. F. A. Marting of this city, and Mrs. Marting was formerly Miss Mary Davis daughter of the late Henry and Mrs. Davis, who lived on a farm between Sciotoville and Wheelersburg, where Mary was courted and married to J. C. Marting.

Concerning the gift to Baldwin-Wallace college, a bulletin published by the college says:

A Wedding and a Gift
"She was tall, slender, with radiant, golden locks. She was what one thinks of as a bride. He was stalwart, broad-shouldered, forward-looking. She was Mary; he was John. Their whole circumference of life was bounded by each other."

In southern Ohio they were married. Romance and hopes, ambitions and dreams filled their hearts. That was fifty years ago. They are still bride and groom - this Mary and this John. Her figure is more matronly and her locks are silvered. His figure shows the touch of years and his hair is white. Through half a century they have been good servants of Jesus Christ.

Beginning with a small amount of worldly goods, they were thrifty and frugal, with that gift which knows how to take a nickel and grow a quarter in its place. Salaries were never large, but this bride and groom believed they were stewards of God's property and always acknowledged their stewardship. They invested, added to their holdings and recognized always their obligation to Him whose are the silver and the gold.

Last week Mary and John again stepped to the strains of the wedding march. Just as fifty years ago, and celebrated the Golden Anniversary of their nuptials on the banks of the Ohio.

This Golden Wedding gift is one of the three pledges of one hundred thousand dollars announced incoincidentally through the recent months. The trustees, faculty, students, patrons and friends of Baldwin-Wallace are especially pleased with this great and generous announcement because of why the donors are the amount they give, and the spirit in which they give it.

Congratulations and all hail to the bride and groom, the golden wedding, the golden gift, and the college to which they gave it.

Goodbye Boils!

Are you "up to the neck" in blood impurities? S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-purifiers known. Try it.

S. S. S. Will Rid You of Boils, Pimples, Blackheads and Skin Eruptions.

A boil is a volcano. Your blood is so chock full of poisons that these "boils" put into a boil. They'll keep "boiling up" until you destroy them completely by the use of S. S. S., one of the most powerful blood-purifiers known to science. S. S. S. has stood the test of time. The power of its ingredients is acknowledged by authorities. Its medicinal ingredients are guaranteed to be purely vegetable. Right off, it clears the skin of pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, acne, eczema, rash and other skin eruptions, and does it thoroughly. It drives out of the blood impurities which cause rheumatism, makes the blood rich and pure builds up lost flesh. It helps to manufacture new blood cells - that's one of its secrets. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN MUSIC

The advent of their new pastor, the Rev. William H. Gleiser, at the First Presbyterian Church on Easter Sunday, will be the signal for a general assembling of all the church and congregation for what will undoubtedly be a great day in the history of the church.

Of largest interest to the people of Portsmouth generally, will be the vesper hour music at three o'clock Easter afternoon. At this time Mrs. J. M. Stockman, First Church's organist, whose music programs throughout past year have given this church a wide popularity, will present one of the finest arrangements of Easter music ever written - "Still" sacred cantata. "Immortality." Seventeen solo voices will make up the choir, and the presentation will be an artistic as well as spiritual triumph.

"The Bible school, encouraged by the ease which they passed their goal of 500, set a year ago, not only once but a number of times during the past year, mean to break the school record - 581 - which was made 11 years ago; and this Easter their mark is 600.

per asper, crossed the room and shut her husband four times, one bullet piercing his brain.

Attacked Miss Stewart
As Tepper fell mortally wounded, both women rushed to his prostrate form and knelt beside him. Mrs. Tepper then, using her revolver as a club, attacked the Stewart woman, cutting a deep gash under her left eye. Miss Stewart rushed from the place and called a passing policeman, who arrested her and Mrs. Tepper.

Both Women Held
Mrs. Tepper is being held in the county jail pending action by the grand jury and Miss Stewart is being held in the detention home as a material witness.

Tepper and his wife had been living apart for more than a year since the woman filed suit for divorce, in which she mentioned another woman, Miss Stewart, denied being the woman mentioned by Mrs. Tepper in her divorce action.

Coal Miners

vanity. The union leaders insisted that they had made great headway, and the operators agreed that about eight thousand men had quit work in some mines operated by independent companies. Both sides were of the opinion that the next few days would tell the story.

A trip through the coke country from Westmoreland county to Mount Pleasant, Connellsville, and Uniontown and thence down through the Monongahela river district, where numbers of independent mines and half a dozen of the Frick mines were closed last week, showed a country expectant.

Miners and their wives, with whom the correspondent talked, conversed freely of the activities of union organizers and expressed the opinion that scores of men who had never been in a strike would soon be out.

"A good many men have been out of work, or only working a day or two a week," said one intelligent young man as he sat on the porch of his cabin at the Frick mine near Connellsville. "They figure that things couldn't be much worse than they have been, and they might be better if they joined the union. I believe the most of the miners will strike this week."

He disclaimed, as did his wife, all knowledge of the union, and declared he had never to his knowledge seen or talked with an organizer.

Not far from the house, a party of correspondents, whose automobile was in need of repairs, engaged two other young men in conversation by the roadside. They had talked only a few minutes when two men, each carrying a police club and wearing stars with the designation of deputy sheriffs, approached the little knot and asked what they wanted. When told the men were correspondents, one of the deputies said that, although he did not doubt the mission of the strangers, "while this martial law is on we have orders not to allow people to congregate in the road."

Martial law is not in force, however.

The disabled car was pointed to him as evidence that the correspondents could not leave until it was repaired, and he said it would be all right for them to stay, but they must go back to the car and not stand in the roadway. The deputies, still refusing to discuss working conditions at the plant nearby, but indicated that union officials, in their belief, would make little headway there. The incident occurred at Leisensburg, Number 2, an important plant of the Frick Company, near Connellsville.

If you have property of any kind, matter where or what, it is surely worth while to insure in a company you know to be prompt and liberal in case of fire. J. W. INMAN. -Advertisement

Will Extremists

DUBLIN, April 10. (By Associated Press.) - British military police fully armed appeared in the streets of Dublin yesterday for the first time since the creation of a truce in Ireland. Their presence caused a sensation.

Cabinet Member Seized By Crowd
DUBLIN, April 10. (By Associated Press.) - George Gavan Duffy, minister of foreign affairs in the daily cabinet, was seized by a crowd of young men and women and dragged from a platform upon which he was making an address at a protest meeting here yesterday. The distributors, after causing general consternation among spectators, abruptly withdrew and shouted "Long Live Eamon DeValera, long live the Republic of Ireland."

Tullamore is located 50 miles west southwest of Dublin. It has a population of approximately 5,000 people.

Police Barracks Attacked
LONDON, April 10. (By Associated Press.) - The police barracks at Broadford, County Clare, occupied by official Irish army units, were attacked at 2 o'clock this morning, says a dispatch from Limerick. There was an exchange of fire for a considerable time, the besieged force refusing to surrender.

Captain William O'Brien, who was in charge of the units occupying the barracks, was fatally wounded. No other details of the fighting were available at the time the dispatch was sent.

Deny DeValera Deposed
DUBLIN, April 10. (By Associated Press.) - A statement issued by the Irish Republican publicity department today contradicted the rumors, given from an article in the London Daily Mail that Eamon DeValera had been deposed as leader of the Republicans at the secret meeting of the Irish Republican army in Dublin yesterday.

Here Is A Record Of The Great Hurler's Pevishness

Boston club in the middle of a game at Chicago. Disgusted with the way the club was going Mays said he was through with baseball unless sold to a club up in the race.

He was later sold to the New York club. President Johnson then suspended him. The New York club took the case to court and got a permanent injunction restraining President Johnson interfering with the pitching of Mays for the New York club.

It was a long drawn out court affair that split the American League into factions. Five clubs remained loyal to President Johnson. This prevented New York, Chicago and Boston from ousting him from the presidency, as was their intent.

Mays later was unfortunate enough to kill Ray Chapman of the Cleveland club with a pitched ball. It was alleged by the players, that Mays was in the habit of throwing the "lean ball." At one time it looked as if all the American League clubs would go on strike over the incident.

These are just a few of the high spots in a score of affairs in which Mays has played the central figure.

The Mays case is turning out to be a complete vindication for the attitude taken by President Johnson, who

Well, the Reds have done pretty well with American League teams this spring, showing that they may be a serious figure in the National. They secured an even break with Cleveland and beat the Red Sox, Pete Donahoe turning the trick yesterday in hollow style.

Scott Billy Doyle is on hand at all practice sessions being held by Hunter's team in Millbrook. He is to mingle with young ball players and he surely knows a diamond in the rough. He probably will take over three or four of Hunter's team and send them to other clubs.

As usual, many Portsmouth fans will be in Redland Wednesday when the Moran Men pry off the lid for the 1927 baseball season. The Reds probably will win this game as Rixey has always been effective against the Cubs. But Alexander is no longer the demon he used to be on the pitcher's slab.

COLLETTES, O., April 10.—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis middle-weight and Ten Block, of Detroit, will meet here tonight on a twelve round bout, the main event on a card of four bouts.

Manager Fred Hunter of the Lane team the result of a conference he held with Sam McCallister of the local folks in Columbus and where Indians. Hunter will have some of his regular players from the Cleveland Indians report this week and from now on his players will hit some mighty hard practice ticks. "The next four weeks will be busy ones with us and by Wednesday or Thursday all of my players will be here," Hunter said Monday. "We will practice four or five hours each day and expect to be in tip top shape when the bell taps in the Central league."

DeWoss, Shover and Lewis, who are trying out with the Middletanders are showing up well and expect to make good. Their friends were on hand to encourage them Sunday and were sadly disappointed when acting manager Dixon of the Hunters said it was too wet to play. Local bugs are also set for a big year in a baseball way and there is no doubt but what Hunter's team is going to attract a host of fans to the local park when it is stacked up against real opposition.

AS TO KICK AND KICKING

THE morning paper scarce reflects the luminosity, supposedly attaching to its name, when it comes to defending county officials for bringing liquor cases against city accused before an outside justice of the peace and thus losing all the fees and a big slice of the fines.

It pleads that had the police done their duty the outside raiders and roughs would not have been brought in. That's defense that convicts its own side. County officials are charged with enforcing state laws. It is their duty to enforce them as much as it is the police—more so in this instance because they are the favored agents of the pro-sanctified in such matters as violation of prohibition laws. And don't they roost just as close to the alleged offenders arrested, as do the police. Then where were their ears and eyes that they did not hear and see the charged violations?

Let us get this matter perfectly straight, confine it to the one fact and not bog it with unnecessary side issues. The raid was made by federal officials. It was a dragnet sort of an affair. It was made largely upon active and narrow suspicion, rather than upon grounded belief. It was known days before hand that it was to be made. Where did that leak come from? Not from the police, because they are not in the confidence of the enforcers. Then whence?

The Sun says the sheriff's office knew nothing of the matter until the warrants were produced by a federal deputy. Then the sheriff's office must have been asleep and deaf, because it didn't know what a lot of other people knew.

However, let that go, let the whole matter of the raid go and that doesn't lessen the force of the so-called kick from The Times. The sheriff's office has arrested quite a number of prohibition infractors, some of them right here in the city. Everyone it has brought before an outside justice of the peace. Aye, it has done worse than that, it has brought the justice before the accused, brought him to face them, not them him, right here in the jail. Could anything more unseemly be conceived in name of justice, trying accused in jail before an outlander?

And the city lost all the fees and a big share of the fines, don't forget that—and the sheriff's office got its elective vote in the city and expects to get it again—don't forget that either.

MUCH OUT OF LITTLE

WASHINGTON, which just lives and breathes politics, is all astir because President Harding has summarily dismissed twenty chiefs of the printing bureau and the country is threatened with another pesky investigation.
It is a vain and hollow world in which we live. Mr. Harding could have dismissed these employees, one or two at a time, in the period of his administration, and little or nothing would have been said of it, but because he omits them all in a lurch he is charged with violation of the constitution and worse yet, desecration of the holy civil service system.

He may have killed the storm by his sufficient reason, from his view point, he made the dismissal for the good of the service, but his friends are only giving credence to the protestants by the sneering defence that he kicked 'em out because they were hostile to the administration. For while that is justification in itself, it hasn't a soothing sound. Down in his heart every partisan believes all the other fellows ought to be fired from their jobs, but it isn't esteemed good politics to so avow.

Taking the action into sober view, we are not so certain that President Harding hasn't done quite a wholesome thing, no matter what his animating motive. For while civil service, in a general way, is quite approvable, it has its failings. One of these is where incumbents get to believe that they are so entrenched in office that they can not be removed at all. Shaking them out of that complacency improves the public service, at least for a time.

In a suit filed to recover property seized Grover Bergdoll declares himself a "citizen of the United States." He heaps contumely on insult.

Well, all that can be said for the girl who allowed a congressman of the name of Herrick to break her heart well!
That's all.

Would-be mail bagpits who have families to support should keep out of the range of the marines who are riding the trains.

It is a heap safer to hit a man on the nose "in principle."

Appeals not to make a joke of prohibition enforcement sound particularly incongruous coming from some dry officers.

Nothing is so effective as marriage in convincing some men there are a lot of things they don't know about women.

Friends may introduce them, but candidates are never often recommended by the enemies they have made.

While others are trying to outwrestle a pull, the wise man gets into the push.

Around the seas for "confidence votes" appears to have perished in the spring.

The man who is high spots encounters some that are often the contrary.

For so much a change, Lloyd George's campaign is a lot of noise.

They of high sets may well be sure that they are not so high as they seem.

JOSEPH IN PRISON

JOSEPH was imprisoned two years. Pharaoh's butler and baker who had offended him were also imprisoned. They each dreamed a dream and told Joseph who interpreted them. He told the butler, "Within three days shall Pharaoh lift thine head and restore thee unto thy place." When he heard the baker's dream, he said, "Within three days shall Pharaoh lift thine head and shall hang thee on a tree, the birds shall eat thy flesh." Joseph asked them to show kindness unto him and to mention him to Pharaoh so he would be released from prison.

New York-Day-By-Day
BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 10.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Peepers: Up betimes, and walked about the fair stone houses, the spring beginning now to appear, and took vicinities with W. Catlett, the cockle player. My seasonal sorrow ready but how I shall pay for it only Heaven knows.

Going to my chambers I did my stint and read some history of the Medici family and the gay Florentine days, which I knew little about.
Came Bruley, the poet, and Roth, the artist, and we threw dice for pennies, all merrily.

Lunched with my wife and she away and I to stroll about, it being pretty to see the gay windows and C. Norris, the novelist, joined me and watched the throngs and the children in their pony carts, a sudden crash it doth appear.

In the evening with my wife to see Lillian Torrance's play and she bath fully recovered and was merry and later to the Rendezvous until in the morning and Mistress Lydia flirt there, also Francis White, Baron de Meyer and Fokine, and Bessie Vanderbilt in the nearest white vest ever I saw. So home and to bed.

Perhaps it is a printer's joke.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

April
Oh, I laughed awhile with April,
She seemed so blithe and gay,
I basked awhile in her bright smile
And hoped she'd ever stay;
She called to me with rosy lips:
"Come, child, let's laugh and play!"
So I laughed awhile with April,
For that is April's way.

But I had to cry with April
Before the day was done,
For lo! A naughty little cloud Went frisking past the sun; Down came the rain—my hat was ruined.
My frock was splashed with clay,
So I cried awhile with April
For that is April's way.

lift thine head and shall hang thee on a tree, the birds shall eat thy flesh." Joseph asked them to show kindness unto him and to mention him to Pharaoh so he would be released from prison.

JOSEPH IN PRISON

JOSEPH was imprisoned two years. Pharaoh's butler and baker who had offended him were also imprisoned. They each dreamed a dream and told Joseph who interpreted them. He told the butler, "Within three days shall Pharaoh lift thine head and restore thee unto thy place." When he heard the baker's dream, he said, "Within three days shall Pharaoh
lift thine head and shall hang thee on a tree, the birds shall eat thy flesh." Joseph asked them to show kindness unto him and to mention him to Pharaoh so he would be released from prison.
